

Knocked Up Talking Points

- How is Allison's situation (becoming pregnant after a drunken one-night stand) common in today's society and media?
- Does it seem strange that abortion is never mentioned as an option in this movie (Except jokingly)? Discuss why this is the case in this movie and many other TV shows and films. (HINT: even "pro-choice" people are uncomfortable with portraying what they know deep down is a bad choice.)
- It is often said that one becomes a better person once he or she is a parent. In what ways does Ben change? Allison?
- How does family play a role in the pregnancy? (Ben's dad not being the role model he needs, Allison's judgmental sister, etc.)